

STREET WISD

arts careers fair 2012

Wednesday 14 March
2pm – 5pm

Welcome to the University of West London Streetwise Arts Careers Fair 2012

Students and graduates

Streetwise is an arts career fair that aims to bring together our students and graduates with employers from the creative sector in West London and beyond.

Streetwise plays an important part in meeting our goal to be one of the leading employer engaged universities in the country with a focus on an education that works.

We are always looking for ways to strengthen our links with industry and we know that one of the biggest challenges for you as a graduate is finding the employment that sets you on the way to a career in your chosen field. Streetwise helps you start to make the connections you need through the opportunity to network with employers and gather information on working, internships, and career planning.

Put your career in top gear by:

- meeting employers from the creative industries
- exploring graduate job opportunities
- attending employer led workshops
- having your CV assessed at the CV Clinic
- registering with the UWL Careers and Employment service for job opportunities
- becoming a part of the UWL Volunteers Team.

The logo for the Streetwise Arts Careers Fair 2012. It features the words "STREET WISE" in a large, bold, distressed, grey font. Below this, the words "arts careers fair 2012" are written in a smaller, orange, sans-serif font. The text is set against a background of a large, stylized orange arrow pointing upwards and to the right, and a green hand-like shape pointing downwards and to the right. A series of black chevrons points towards the bottom right of the logo.

Employers

We are delighted to offer you the opportunity to meet our talented graduates and students from across the wide range of creative disciplines taught within the Ealing School of Art, Design and Media and the London College of Music including:

The Prince's Trust

Nature of the business: Youth charity

The Prince's Trust Enterprise Programme supports unemployed young people aged 18-30 to work out if their business ideas are viable and whether self-employment is right for them. To take part in the programme, young people need to be interested in self-employment. They also need a business idea that they would like help to test and explore. If through this process they find out the idea is viable, the programme can offer mentoring support and, for those that really need it, financial support to start their business. However, if self-employment turns out not to be the right option, the programme can support young people to secure other outcomes in employment, education, training or voluntary work.
