Computer-based tests are suitable for candidates who are more comfortable with a keyboard and mouse than with paper and pencil. They also offer more exam dates throughout the year and permit shorter registration times – allowing candidates to register as little as a week before taking their test.

Some of our exam papers are also available in versions featuring content particularly targeted at the interests and experience of school-aged learners.

The table below gives you useful information about the formats in which each exam is available. A separate table for Teaching Awards can be found on page 36.

The right level

The Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR) is the standard benchmark used internationally to describe language ability. It plays a central role in language and education policy worldwide. Cambridge ESOL and the CEFR

The Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR) is a series of descriptions of abilities which can be applied to any language and can be used to set clear targets for achievement in language learning. It has now become accepted all over the world as a way of benchmarking language ability.

Cambridge English exams are developed in accordance with the principles and approaches of the CEFR.

Results

Cambridge ESOL is committed to providing candidates with accurate, informative results as quickly as possible after they take their exam or test. In many cases – including all computer-based exams – results are issued within two weeks of the test date, and we are continually working to provide results as quickly as possible for all exams, without compromising the extensive assessment and quality control processes that ensure fairness and reliability. Candidates' results give a breakdown of their performance in each of the four skills – listening, speaking, reading and writing.

Quality and security

To ensure that our exams are a fair and accurate representation of candidates' abilities, we are committed to the highest standards of quality, security and integrity.

All Cambridge ESOL centres follow a detailed code of practice which sets out the highest standards of security throughout the testing process, from registration to results. Security is now being enhanced even further as we introduce a system of test-day photos.

All of Cambridge ESOL's systems and processes are certified as meeting the internationally recognised ISO: 9001 2008 standard for quality management.

Test process

At Cambridge ESOL we constantly review the exams we provide to ensure they are accurate, relevant and fair. Creating a new exam which is a thorough and meaningful test of a new area of assessment is a complicated process requiring careful research and testing. Some of the world's leading experts in language assessment contribute to the work of Cambridge ESOL and the quality of our exams is built on their combined expertise, experience and understanding of assessment and learning.

Verification

Secure, user-friendly and effective

Anyone can use this free service once they have been given permission to verify a result by the certificate holder.

Cambridge ESOL exams are regulated by Ofqual, the UK government's exams regulator. Information on the levels and the qualifications numbers of Cambridge ESOL examinations are available at <http://register.ofqual.gov.uk/Qualification>

Extended certification

Extended certification is a way of making candidates' certificates more meaningful and informative, by reflecting more precisely the correspondence between their Cambridge ESOL grade and the level of skills they have demonstrated in relation to the CEFR levels.

Each exam measures a range of abilities, and candidates who score sufficiently high marks to demonstrate that they fall into the CEFR band above the one targeted by the test (typically by getting grade A) can have this reflected on their certificate. Similarly, candidates who just fail to achieve a pass mark, but have demonstrated sufficient skills, can receive a certificate showing that they have achieved the CEFR level below the one targeted by the exam.

Candidates who achieve grade A in Cambridge English: Advanced (which assesses Level C1) receive a certificate showing that they have achieved Level C2. Cambridge English: Key candidates who achieve a narrow fail will receive Level A1 certificates, and Cambridge English: Preliminary and Business English Certificate: Preliminary candidates who achieve a narrow fail receive Level A2 certificates.

The table below demonstrates this concept.

The Common European Framework of Reference		Cambridge English: Advanced
C Proficient user	C2	Grade A	Level of English needed for most academic purposes
	C1	Grade B
B Independent user	B2	Grade C
	B1	Grade D
A Basic user	A2
	A1

Recognition

A certificate from Cambridge ESOL tells people a great deal about the holder and what they can do. International study, employment and travel opportunities are enhanced by a Cambridge ESOL qualification. It is recognised as proof of language ability by more than 11,000 employers, universities and government bodies around the world.

Teaching Awards and tests for teachers

“The practical element of the Delta course meant that I could feel the benefits I was gaining from it when working with my learners, who seemed to appreciate their central role in my own learning.

My colleagues both at my school and on the course were also an important part of the learning process. I now look forward to a more relaxing year, putting into practice more of what I learned. First and foremost that means reflecting on my teaching at every stage in a way I was not capable of before.”

Teaching Knowledge Test

TKT

Specialist modules

To extend the range of knowledge offered under the umbrella of the Teaching Knowledge Test (TKT), a flexible set of specialist modules has been created. TKT is both for experienced teachers and those who have not yet started teaching. There are three specialist TKT modules. TKT has been created so that the modules can be taken all together at the same time or separately, in any order, over a period of time.

TKT: Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL)

This module tests the knowledge of concepts related to content and language integrated learning. TKT: CLIL describes an evolving approach to teaching where subjects are taught and studied through the medium of a non-native language. In TKT: CLIL learning a second or foreign language and learning a curricular subject are given a joint role; for example, a non-native speaker learning geography in English. TKT: CLIL tests knowledge about content teaching in a second language and the learning, thinking and language skills which are developed across different curriculum subjects. It tests knowledge of how to plan lessons as well as knowledge of activities and resources used to support a CLIL approach. It also tests knowledge of teaching strategies and how assessment is carried out in CLIL contexts.

TKT: Knowledge about Language (KAL)

English teachers need to be both linguistically aware and able to understand the difficulties students may encounter in the language learning process. To help meet this need, TKT: KAL tests a candidate's knowledge of the language systems needed by teachers for planning and teaching their lessons.

It tests knowledge of how the different features of English work from a teaching perspective. TKT: KAL also focuses on the teacher's awareness of the language needs of learners, and the difficulties involved in learning a second language.

TKT: YL will test the background knowledge related to teaching young learners in the 6–12 age range and the practice of planning lessons, teaching strategies and assessing learning. It is suitable for international candidates teaching across the primary sector of education. Candidates taking the test are likely to have at least some experience of teaching English to young learners and will be familiar with the language of teaching as represented in the TKT glossary.

BULATS Blended or 100% Online Courses

Cambridge ESOL has developed the BULATS Blended Learning Course and the BULATS Self-study (100% Online) Course to help learners prepare for the BULATS test. The 50-hour courses cover Levels B1–C1 of the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR) and are organised into three modules: Reading and Listening (30 hours); Speaking (10 hours); and Writing (10 hours).

The Speaking module has two versions: one to prepare students for the paper-based test, and the other to prepare students for the computer-based online test.

Flexibility is a key element of the BULATS Blended Learning Course. Tuition providers can adjust the mix of online and classroom study according to the needs of learners.

The BULATS Self-study Course is ideal for people with busy lives who find it hard to make time for classroom study. The online courses are flexible, letting learners study what they want, when they want.

- BULATS Blended Learning Course – 60%–70% Online, 30%–40% Classroom
- BULATS Self-study Course – 100% Online

All courses are of 100-hour duration and organised into four modules: Reading, Writing, Listening and Speaking.

The self-study modules can be bought and used individually.

The IELTS Self-study Course is ideal for people with busy lives who find it hard to make time for classroom study. The online courses are flexible, letting learners study what they want, when they want.

- IELTS Academic Blended Learning Course (Bands 4.5–5.5) 50%–60% Online, 40%–50% Classroom
