Introducing the Schulich MBA Specialization in Global Mining Management

In September 2012, the Schulich School of Business at York University will deliver a unique MBA specialization in Global Mining Management, designed to prepare future business leaders to excel in one of the world's most vital and challenging industries.

Schulich is ideally located in Toronto, the mining finance capital of the world, and home to more than 1,500 mining companies and industry leaders.

Graduates of this innovative program will pursue rewarding careers within the booming global mining sector, with a quoted market value in excess of $2 trillion. The new specialization will also offer a competitive edge to the many business professionals, including investment bankers, financial analysts and consultants, who provide services to clients within the global mining industry.

Schulich: A Global Leader

Schulich is ranked among the world's leading business schools by a number of major surveys, including The Economist (#9 in the world). Schulich is also ranked as one of the globe's top 10 schools outside the US by Bloomberg Businessweek and Forbes, and is ranked #2 in the world by the Aspen Institute, a US-based leadership think tank, in a survey that assesses how well business schools are preparing future leaders for the environmental, social and ethical complexities of modern-day business.
